Survey of 131 heritage buildings picks up pace

Report to be submitted to DC after grading of structures as per norms

The team of heritage experts visiting the NCC Office. There are over 131 structures within Mysuru City Corporation limits including temples to be assessed.

Mysuru, Oct. 31 (RK&BCT)- The ongoing survey of 131 heritage structures within the limits of Mysuru City Corporation (MCC) has gained momentum and it will take one more month to complete the task. A report will be submitted to Deputy Commissioner (DC) Dr. K.V. Rajendra to be sent to the State Government for further action. The DC is the Chairman of the District Heritage Committee.

The survey began on Oct. 12 as widespread rainfall caused damage to the buildings, many of which are already dilapidated. The buildings are being graded according to the norms specified in the Karnataka Municipal Corporation Model Building (Amendment) Bylaws- 2021.

Speaking to SOM on the status of the survey, Commissioner of Department of Archaeology, Museums and Heritage Devaraju said that the team inspects the buildings every afternoon and is taking into consideration all the structural aspects, date of construction, present state of building, need of restoration and the estimated cost of repairs.

The team comprises Heritage Commissioner, Deputy Director, Department of Archaeology, Museums and Heritage Manjula, Curator Sunil, Engineer Rekha, Assistant Executive Engineer Mahesh, Prof. N.S. Rangaraju of Indian National Trust for Art and Cultural Heritage (INTACH)-Mysuru and Member of District Heritage Committee, Prof. Syed Shakeeb Ur Rahman, former Dean, VTU and former Principal of SJCE and others.

GRADING PARAMETERS

- GRADE I BUILDINGS: Those carrying national or historical importance. They have their own architectural style, design and aesthetics. The buildings can be the ones that are associated with game-changing historical events or connected to eminent personalities.
- GRADE II BUILDINGS: Local landmarks that contribute or enhance the image or identity of a particular city. It may also be a structure that is constructed by well-known architects.
- GRADE III BUILDINGS: Those that have architectural, aesthetic or sociological interest. These buildings determine the character of a particular locality.

ONLINE FRAUD

Two women cheated of Rs. 12.69 lakh

Conmen lure gullible victims with foreign jewellery, gold and expensive gifts

Mysuru, Oct. 31 (KS)- With matrimonial fraud cases on the rise, the City Police have been issuing advisories for prospective brides and grooms to avoid being cheated of their money. Warnings have also been issued to the public not to fall prey for online gifts, jewellery and high interest for their investment.

The modus operandi is to post an impressive online profile on a matrimonial site, posing as prospective bride or bridegroom. Fraudsters then befriend the gullible and once they gain confidence, they ask victims to transfer money into their bank accounts stating an emergency. They disappear without a trace as soon as the money is transferred and the cycle continues.

In the latest cases of online fraud, two women have lost a total of Rs. 12,69,780 to online fraudsters in Mysuru and Kodagu.

In the first case, a fraudster, who got himself introduced to a 32-year-old woman through a matrimonial website, cheated her to the tune of Rs. 5,86,780 on the pretext of sending her a gift from abroad. Fraudsters usually target women and men who are older are desperate to get married. They usually claim to be working in foreign countries as the verification in such cases becomes furthermore difficult.

The woman, who was cheated on is A.M. Pratibha, a resident of Angatahalli in Hunsur taluk. A B.Com graduate, Pratibha had married one Suraj Shahi in 2017 and a daughter was born to them. But her husband, who was working in Dubai, reportedly married there and severed his relationship with Pratibha.

EDITOR'S BOTTOMLINE

Equality has been the corner stone of modern civilisation. The founding principle of all democracies and egalitarian nations is to attain equal rights and privileges for all its citizens. The modern world has supported political systems which promote equality for all in its societies. Offering the same liberties to all people irrespective of lineage, status, religion, caste and creed is at the heart of any just land.

Yet, the reality today is quite the opposite. Despite the abolition of segregation and other laws to check inequality, disparity continues to mar our world. The haves and the have-nots, the educated and the illiterate, the strong and the weak all have their pecking order in our societies. This has resulted in continued exploitation of the poor by the rich, the illiterate by the literate and the weak by the strong.

This unfair scenario can however be altered by a paradigm shift in the thinking of the rich, educated and strong. The rich should reconsider their wealth and question their riches. For instance, they should ponder over how poor their thinking is and on whether they are really rich on the inside?

Likewise, the educated would do well to recognise that despite their knowledge they may indeed be very ignorant. Will they be able to clarify, for example, what the real meaning and purpose of life is for the human person? Could they consider themselves to be wise and evolving? And finally, the strong should understand that they need not - and in fact cannot - remain strong all the time. History is replete with a long list of so-called strong men and women who have fallen for the allurements of the material world. There are many weak moments even for the strongest of people.

Thus, the belief that some, based on riches and education and strength are superior to others is folly. The gaps among us are only perceived. The moment we relinquish our hubris and realise this truth, we would have brought about equality and mutual respect.

NEWS SPARKLERS

Two-headed albino milk snake

North Carolina: A North Carolina snake breeder unveiled one of the newest and most unusual additions to his menagerie, a two-headed Honduran albino milk snake.

Jimmy Mabe of Farmer said the young snake has two heads that share one set of lungs and a stomach. He said both heads appear to be functional.

"The right side is a little more aggressive than the left," Mabe told. "So it wants to bite me more."

He said the two heads are still figuring out how to coexist. "They do have a different mind to go in a different direction than the other," he said. "They can't always be fighting over which way to go." Mabe said the public will be able to meet his unusual snake at the Repticon Show coming to Charlotte's Cabarrus Arena Oct. 15-16.

Birthday balloons float 500 miles

Missouri: Kason Johnson, a second-grader whose birthday balloons flew off into the sky received some special gifts in the mail from a man who found the lost balloons 500 miles away.

His mother said she was walking her son to the family car at Mountain Grove Elementary School in Mountain Grove, Mo., when he lost hold of the balloons that had been presented to him at school for his 8th birthday.

The balloons were attached to an envelope that bore the name of the business that sold the balloons as well as the name of the school.

Huyler, a woodworker, sent handmade gifts including a baseball bat to Johnson and his teacher. Huyler also included photos of himself and his dachshund, Henry, as well as $100 for Johnson and a letter to the boy's parents.

Potholes galore post-Dasara

Time to wake up MCC!

Sir,

Dasara has come and gone. And as expected, the roads which were not repaired before Dasara are still the same.

Many concerned citizens including me had written in this column about the same topic before Dasara but I think it fell on deaf ears. It's a known fact that Dasara is the best chance to take up such works since it is the pride of our city and lakhs of people make a footfall here and they did too this year but I am not sure if they were satisfied at all with the backbone breaking rides.

I think if such repair works are not taken up before Dasara, they are hard to be taken up later since every higher official forgets about it and are least concerned.

Almost all the major roads even a few in the CBD are not spared of this menace.

Recently, I read a news about a bike-rider suffering injuries after falling into a pothole though not in our city. Such accidents are waiting to happen here too and it is no use if we can't prevent them now. I hope the MCC wakes up from its deep slumber and swiftly carry out the needful road repair works before it's too late.

Technical team from Bengaluru visits Maharani's Science College

Mysuru, Oct. 31 (RK&DM)- Ten days after the roof of the Chemistry Lab of Maharani's Science College on JLB Road came crashing down, a team of Engineers from the Technical Wing of the Directorate of Collegiate Education at Bengaluru, visited the over century old college this morning and gathered information regarding the collapsed structure.

The team which comprised Assistant Executive Engineer Madhusudhan and others inspected the Chemistry Lab building and ascertained the reasons for the collapse of the roof of the building on Oct. 21, with is considered as a heritage structure.

The team after making a thorough inspection of the building and receiving vital inputs, will prepare a report on the condition of the building and prepare a report on the stability of the structure and the method of clearance of debris from the caved in roof, along with technical specifications and measures to be taken.

College Principal Dr. D. Ravi took the Engineers around the entire college premises and provided the sought information.

'Those who embraced Buddhism are in a state of confusion'

Mysuru, Oct. 31 (GA&TRR)- University of Mysore (UoM) Prasaranga Director Dr. M. Nanjaiah has said that those who have converted to Buddhism are in a state of confusion now, as they are unable to forget their basic religion.

He was speaking after releasing the book 'Navayana Buddhism', at a programme organised jointly by The Shared Mirror Publishing House - Round Table India and Angala Sahitya Balaga, at Buddha Statue in Manasagangothri campus.

He pointed out that the Buddha Navayana began after Dr. B.R. Ambedkar embraced Buddhism in 1956. "Dr. Ambedkar wanted to show that by embracing Buddhism and following the ideals it is possible to build a good society," Nanjaiah added.

Stating that Dr. Ambedkar converted to Buddhism at a time when it was on the verge of extinction, Dr. Nanjaiah said that those who have joined Buddhism recently are now building Buddha Viharas and also celebrating Guru Purnima. "But the converted people are still unable to come out of the practices of their basic religion and are in a state of confusion. Those who embrace Buddhism must follow Buddha's consciousness and follow his ideals. I wish, those days come early," he added.

"Buddhism Study Centres should be established at all Universities of the country. We have already appealed twice to start a Buddhism Study Centre at UoM. In addition, more seminars and interaction programmes should be held about the book Navayana Buddhism," he concluded.

The Shared Mirror Publishing House - Round Table India Co-founder Kuffir Nalgundwar, who too spoke, said that Dr. Ambedkar wanted to join a religion which is least harmful to the nation and embraced Buddhism. "We have taken three years to bring out this book which is already released in Maharastra. Discussions and interactions are being organised about the book there. 'Navayana Buddhism' is already translated to Hindi, Marathi and Telugu languages and in the coming days will be translated into Kannada as well. We will cooperate with those who want join with us in this mission," he added.

Thinker Sridhar Agalaiah, Angala Sahitya's Pradeep Mummadi and students were present on the occasion.

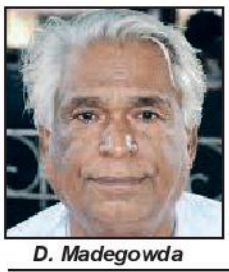
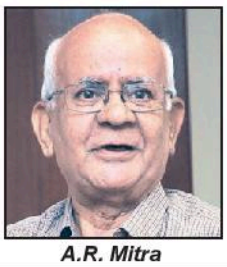
Two personalities and Ramakrishna Ashram of Mysuru among 67 Rajyotsava awardees



D. Madegowda

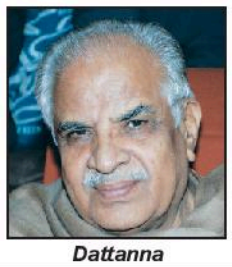
Prof. Krishnegowda



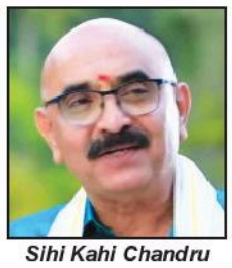
A.R. Mitra

Madan Gopal

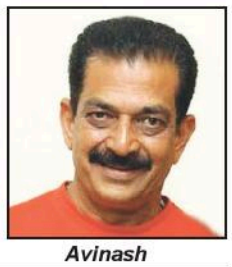
K. Sivan



Dattanna



Sihi Kahi Chandru



Avinash

Bengaluru/Mysuru, Oct.31 (DM)- With Kannada Rajyotsava being celebrated tomorrow, the State Government on Sunday announced the list of 67 Rajyotsava awardees, that includes renowned humorist and Kannada writer Prof. M. Krishnegowda and former MLC D. Madegowda of Mysuru, former ISRO Chairman K.Sivan, writer and researcher Aa.Ra. Mitra, para-swimmer Raghavendra Anvekar, former Bureaucrat Madan Gopal, Ganesh Thimmaiah of Kodagu, actors Dattatreya (Dattanna), Avinash and Sihi Kahi Chandru and Soligara Madamma of Chamarajanagar under Special Category.

In the Organisation category, Mysuru's Ramakrishna Ashram is among the ten organisations in the State which has bagged the award.

Speaking after releasing the list, Kannada and Culture Minister V. Sunil Kumar maintained that this year's list is well balanced, with focus on hidden talents.

He further said that the State Government followed the footsteps of Prime Minister Narendra Modi in the selection of awardees. The money associated with the award has been enhanced to Rs.5 lakh, along with a 25-gram Gold Medal and a plaque. Earlier, the award carried a purse of Rs.1 lakh.

Prof. M. Krishnegowda

Prof. M. Krishnegowda who has won the Rajyotsava award in the Literature category, is a well-known humorist, Kannada writer and columnist.

Prof. Krishnegowda, a native of Kanaganamaradi in Pandavapura taluk of Mandya district, is a Gold Medalist in Kannada from University of Mysore and began his career as a Kannada Lecturer. He retired as the Principal of St. Philomena's College after serving the Institution for 34 years.

This apart, he has made his mark in cinema, small screen, theatre and other related fields. A noted orator, columnist and humorist, Prof. Krishnegowda began his humour show with 'Harate,' a popular humour talk show of Udaya TV and since then became a vital part of innumerable humour shows, through which he became a household name.

His popular work 'Jalada Kannu,' a collection of his articles published in newspapers, has been published as three editions.

Speaking to Star of Mysore, Prof. Krishnegowda, a resident of Hebbal in city, said that he is delighted for having got the award. Pointing out that Kannada has given him everything in life, he said that it is Kannada which has been his leading light.

"I always believed in Kannada. Kannada has been my friend of life and my entire personality is full of Kannada," he said adding that he will continue to work for taking Kannada to greater heights.

D. Madegowda

D. Madegowda, a former MLC of Mysuru, has bagged the award in Social Service category.

A resident of Kumbarakoppal in city, he is also a former Chairman of the then CITB (now MUDA) in the late eighties. He became popular as 'Mane Madegowda' for distribution of houses/sites to the shelterless when he headed CITB. He is also credited with the establishment of a Zero-Waste Management Plant at Kumbarakoppal. He is also actively engaged in 'Sasyadhaare,' a mass sapling planting campaign in Mysuru. He had also bagged Nalwadi Krishnaraja Wadiyar award recently.

Speaking to Star of Mysore, Madegowda said he was joyous about getting the Rajyotsava award under Social Service category. Maintaining that he has been in service activities for decades, he said that it is happy to note that the Government had identified his work and selected him for the award.

"The entire country recognised me for the 'Ashamandira' housing scheme for the poor which I started. Perhaps Mysuru was the only city in the country which made the 1987 UN's International Housing year, successful. I visited almost every household as part of cleanliness campaign when the 'Nirmala Mane' scheme was introduced in 2007," he said adding that he has lot more to do. He further said that the award has motivated him further in his endeavour of serving the society.

The other awardees include retired IAS officer Madan Gopal, who had served the Government in top positions for years, veteran actor Dattatreya (Dattanna) from Chitradurga and now settled in Bengaluru, senior actor Avinash, who has made his own mark in films by performing in different roles, noted small screen actor Chandru, who became popular as 'Sihi Kahi Chandru' after playing the lead role in the famous Doordarshan serial 'Sihi Kahi', veteran writer and scholar Aa. Ra. Mitra, a native of Hassan, former ISRO Chairman K. Sivan, who was instrumental in taking the Space Research Organisation to greater levels and Soligara Madamma, a tribal co-operative movement activist of Chamarajanagar.

Our services recognised: Swamiji

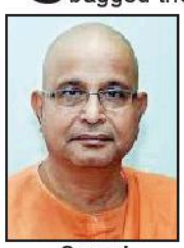
Sri Ramakrishna Ashram on KRS Road has bagged the Rajyotsava award under 'Organisation Category'.



Swami Muktidanandaji

Sri Ramakrishna Ashram was established in city in 1925 and since then it has engaged in various social service activities. The Ashram has been providing education to rural poor students through its novel initiative 'Viveka Shikshana.' It has also provided computers to schools in rural areas under its 'Seva Mandira' initiative, which is also aimed at achieving computer literacy among rural students. This apart, the Ashram has been imparting moral and spiritual education to thousands of people from all sections of the society for decades. The Ashram has brought more than 440 valuable publications for the benefit of the society.

Speaking to Star of Mysore after the announcement of Rajyotsava award to Ramakrishna Ashram, Ashram President Swami Muktidanandaji said that he was thankful to the State Government for the award. Stating that the award has come as a pleasant surprise to the Ashram, he credited the award to the service rendered by hundreds of Sadhus, Rashtrakavi Kuvempu, who stayed in the Ashram for 14 years and all other personalities who were associated with the Ashram.

Pointing out that the Ashram is working for bringing about a change in the society through moral, spiritual and valued education, Muktidanandaji maintained that over 6,800 children have received educational benefits over the past 24 years. Stating that the Ashram has brought out many useful publications such as 'Viveka Prabha' and other Kannada books, he said that the Ashram has been engaged in facilitating quality education to thousands of poor and rural children. He further said that the 'Seva Mandira' initiative of the Ashram will be launched in remote villages too and added that he is grateful and thankful to the Government for having recognised the unique and novel services of the Ashram, which has benefited thousands of children and members of the public since decades.

'Agriculture is a profitable occupation if innovative'

Progressive farmer and Rajyotsava awardee Somengada Ganesh Thimmaiah shares his thoughts

Madikeri, Oct. 31 (PS&BCT)- Kodagu's progressive farmer Somengada Ganesh Thimmaiah of Nallur village near Ponnampet in the southern part of the district has won the Rajyotsava Award for agriculture.

Though coffee and pepper are the prominent commercial crops in Kodagu, Ganesh Thimmaiah has been growing both agricultural and horticultural crops in integrated farming methods and has scripted success.

He is actively involved in innovative agricultural practices since the last 30 years and had earlier served the Indian Army. After retirement from services, he took up agriculture in his 15-acre land and has grown more than 60 varieties of paddy.

To gain additional income, he has a poultry farm and is also involved in apiculture and pisciculture. Apart from the regular crops of coffee, pepper, ginger, mango, orange and jackfruit, Thimmaiah has cultivated rambutan fruit.

In the integrated method in agriculture, he grows areca, coffee and paddy as main crops and a variety of vegetables and fruits and sub-crops. Thimmaiah has also been growing the 'Beth' plants required for honey bees and has implemented a mechanised system in agriculture.

At a time when more and more youths are showing interest in jobs and businesses, Ganesh Thimmaiah has earned name and fame as model farmer and has bagged many awards in the past. He won the National-level Babu Jagjivan Ram Krishi Samman Award. The Indian Council of Agricultural Research (ICAR), New Delhi, conferred the prestigious award on Thimmaiah on the occasion of its 92nd Foundation Day in 2020.

In April this year, he gave comprehensive training in agriculture to the batch of IAS officers at Lal Bahadur Shastri National Academy of Administration, Mussoorie.

"I am honoured to be conferred with the prestigious Rajyotsava Award and this gives me an opportunity to innovate further. I have been involved in agriculture for three decades and there is a need of attracting more and more youths to agriculture as it is profitable if innovative," he said.

Narakasura comes alive amidst vestiges of Portuguese rule

The rise of Mr. Rishi Sunak, the Hindu British citizen of Indian-origin, rising to the dizzy height as the Prime Minister of England at an young age of 42, has many lessons for the voters of the democratic world.

Of course, there are cases where young people have become Presidents and Prime Ministers, but their number is exceptionally few. Nearer home, we have Rajiv Gandhi who became Prime Minister at the age 40 in 1984. This was the rarest of rare case in India because of the dynasty factor. In America, Barack Obama became President at the age of 47 but Bill Clinton became President at the age of 46. And there is a challenger to Mr. Rishi Sunak's credential as the youngest Prime Minister of England. History records that William Pitt the Younger was the youngest Prime Minister at the age of 24! That was on 19th December 1783. But in modern times credit goes to Mr. Rishi Sunak.

Be that as it may. I wish to have our elected representatives also to be young and energetic so that they will have the verve and vigour to run-around, meet the people of consequence in the Government and contribute physically in a visible manner to their respective constituencies. I have been seeing in my Parliamentary constituency, for the last over 45 years, elected representatives belonging to different political parties. But, it is only when the incumbent MP (Member of Parliament) Mr. Pratap Simha got elected first time in 2014 at the age of 38 and for the second time in 2019 at the age of 43 that I began to see perceptible change in an MP's contribution to his constituency. The list is too big, but I must thank him for bringing aeroplanes to our Mysore Airport in Mandakalli which was a mere apology of an airport all these past years. It was he and he alone who revived the airport by aggressively pursuing the need with the authorities in Delhi.

I ruminate about it because but for the air-connectivity to Goa from Mysuru it would not have been possible for me to spend my Deepavali festival in Goa with my family, specially with grandchildren. After all, children love sun, sand and sea. And Goa in India is world famous as a tourist destination. Thank you Mr. Pratap Simha.

Kolkata was once called city of joy because of its unfettered freedom in areas of culture, tradition, literature, food and even celebration of festivals. It was a city that would charm you despite its slums, scums and prevailing poverty. A similar epithet can be given to Goa, which is not a city but a coastal land mass, a small State of our country to the South-West, with many beaches sought after by the locals and the tourists.

Portuguese ruled Goa for over 456 years (1505-1961), longer than the British ruled India or the French ruled Puducherry. Therefore, we can see the vestiges of Portugal houses, churches and grave yards throughout Goa. Some old people still reminiscence the days of Portuguese rule which was no doubt iron-fisted. Wonder why India waited for 14 years after independence to liberate Goa (1961) while our freedom fighters became martyrs.

For tourists who are not of five-star culture and financial status, the choice of accommodation to suit their budget is easily available. Being a Coastal State, fish items of variety, from Prawns to Lobsters, are staple delicacy. There are houses and spacious bungalows with old-world charm for large families or even two families to stay comfortably with in-house kitchen service and servants. Indeed, a home away from home.

Being a coastal area, the temperature is humid and hot with unpredictable rains that pour and disappear. People talk of North Goa and South Goa. Roads are narrow but good motorable. Across the river and the backwater, new, high-rise modern bridges are spanning the watery divide, adding to a traveller's visual delight.

There are many beaches and are maintained clean and neat despite the tourist rush. To me these beach-addicts, scantily dressed, white and the mixed groups, looked like amphibious creatures as I watched them from my restaurant chair sipping beer and relishing fish delicacies. Watching the sunset, from the beach, at the far-end of the sea is a divine experience. Was the sun committing suicide by plunging into the sea at the distant horizon, beyond the reach of those who are on the beach willing to help?

Blood is thicker than water is as old an adage as mankind itself. Which is why we in India and Indians all over the world felt so excited and thrilled when Mr. Rishi Sunak of Indian-origin became the Prime Minister of England the other day. Likewise, I was delighted to find our Mysuru Hoteliers of Siddharta Group, with Olive Garden and Windflower Resorts here and elsewhere, Mr. P.V. Giri and his son Tarun Giri, making their presence in South Goa with a beautiful five-star Beach Resort known as "Varca Le Palms."

I am told there are about 18 best beaches in Goa patronised by the locals and tourists.

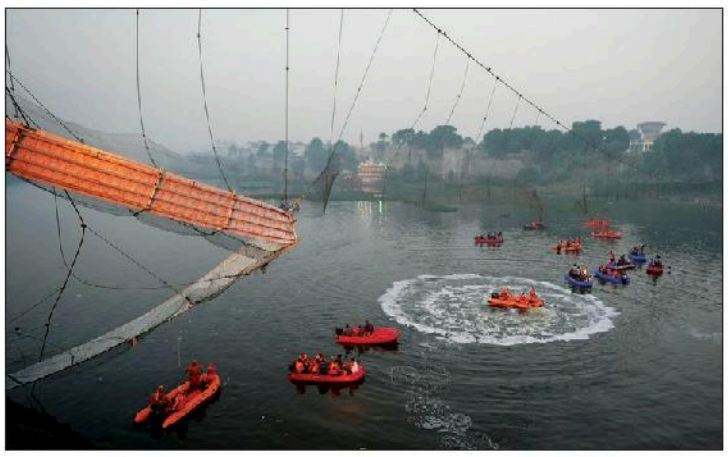
Toll rises to 141 in Gujarat's Morbi Bridge tragedy

CCTV visuals moments before crash show people shaking the British-era hanging bridge



Ahmedabad, Oct. 31 (Agencies)- At least 141 people have died after a British-era bridge in Gujarat's Morbi collapsed last evening. About 177 people have been saved and teams are searching for several others who are still missing.

Around 500 people, including women and children, were on the suspension bridge when the cables supporting it snapped, sending people crashing into the river below. The bridge could take the weight of only about 125 people.

The CCTV footage showed that people shook the bridge and it came crashing. In the video, people can be seen holding on to the bridge and trying to swing it using its cables. The bridge was crammed with people and as they shook the bridge, it swung and suddenly crashed.

Many were performing 'Chhath puja' rituals on the 150-year-old bridge located 300 km from Vadodara. People fell on top of each other after the bridge snapped. Videos showed many desperately clinging to the remains of the bridge while some were seen swimming to safety.

The bridge over Machchhu River had been shut for seven months for repairs. It was reopened to the public on Oct. 26, the Gujarati New Year, without a fitness certificate from the civic authorities.

Prime Minister Narendra Modi, who is in Gujarat, said rescue and relief operations have been going on since yesterday and the Centre is extending all help to the State. He said while he was pained, but also has to follow the path of duty.

A criminal case has been registered and a five-member high-powered committee is probing the bridge collapse. "A case has been registered under charges of culpable homicide not amounting to murder and intentional act causing death against whoever is found responsible," he said.

The renovator of the century-old bridge had not taken a safety certificate before reopening it, local municipal body's chief Sandipsinh Zala said. Five teams of National Disaster Response Force (NDRF) worked through the night to find the missing. The Army, Navy and Air Force also joined the operation later.

The State Government has announced a compensation of Rs. 4 lakh to the family members of each of those who died in the accident and Rs. 50,000 for the injured. The Prime Minister also announced a financial assistance of Rs. 2 lakh each to the families of the victims.

The grading — I, II and III — is being done as per the Karnataka Municipal Corporation Model Building (Amendment) Bylaws-2021. The present condition of all the heritage structures will be mapped and the main focus will be on the stability factor and the damage caused to them due to vagaries of weather. Going by the pace of the survey, it will take one more month to complete the survey and the report will be prepared to be submitted to the DC, Devaraju revealed.

"We have written individual letters to all the occupants of the 131 buildings asking them to seek permission from the District Heritage Committee in case they are planning to renovate or make changes to the heritage structures. As many of the buildings are occupied by Government offices, they are welcome if they are renovating the buildings with necessary permissions and approvals. If they are not, the Department of Archaeology, Museums and Heritage will initiate the restoration works," the officer said.

"Several officers who come to Mysuru on transfers will not be aware of the fact that their work and residence premises have been classified as heritage structures. We have written to each occupant of such buildings to make them aware of the building's heritage nature," he said.

The Heritage Committee has 21 members and all repairs and restoration works must be approved by the Committee. "If any occupant wants to renovate a particular structure, we will give them the estimate, approval and permissions and also a Detailed Project Report on how to go about the renovation," Devaraju noted.

Entrepreneurs from coastal districts are known for their professionalism: Mayor

Mysuru, Oct.31 (RKB&DM)- Maintaining that entrepreneurs and businessmen from coastal districts, who have set up industries and other business establishments in the city are known for their professional ethics, Mayor Shivakumar said that this quality has earned them appreciation from the people of Mysuru region.

He was speaking after inaugurating the newly formed Federation of Dakshina Kannada and other Coastal Districts Association, at Kalamandira on Hunsur road here on Sunday.

Pointing out that people from the coastal districts have made a mark for themselves wherever they have started business or joined service, Shivakumar lauded the coastal people for taking forward their traditions, practices and culture.

Noting that there are about 12,000 coastal districts families with a population of around 65,000 in Mysuru, Shivakumar assured that the MCC would take care to see that businessmen from the coastal districts do not face hurdles in getting trade licence or other necessary certificates.

Noted Music Director Gurukiran said that Mysuru is known as the cultural capital of the State and it is heartening to note that people from coastal regions have made name and fame in this cultural city. Highlighting the contribution made by the erstwhile rulers of Mysore for the growth of arts, culture and heritage, Gurukiran said that it is happy to note that people from coastal districts have maintained Tulu and Kodava culture and language. He further said that it is a matter of pride that the 'Bale Telipale' Tulu comedy show contest is being organised in Mysuru for the first time outside Mangaluru.

Federation President Gracian Rodrigues in his address, said that Dakshina Kannada and other coastal districts are home to many faiths and practices for centuries.

Stating that the Federation will make efforts to bring together people of the coastal districts which extend from Sullia to Sirsi, he said that the Federation would organise a Skin disease screening camp in Mysuru Central Prison shortly.

Online fraud: Two women cheated of Rs. 12.69 lakh

Pratibha decided to get married again and uploaded her details in a matrimonial website and received a request from one Ajith Kumar. After obtaining Pratibha's WhatsApp number, Ajith chatted with her and told her that he is also known by the name Kelvin Maxwell.

He told her that his ancestors were Indians and he was living in the United Kingdom. He later told her that he was sending some jewellery through courier to her and also told her that she would get a call from Delhi Airport. To gain her trust, he also sent a photo of the jewellery box and the receipt to her.

The next day, Pratibha received a call and the caller told her that he was calling from the courier office and that she has got a courier from Ajith Kumar alias Kevin Maxwell. The caller later told her that she has to pay Rs. 38,000 as clearance charge to receive the courier and told her to transfer the money to the bank account of one Rajkumar.

Later, from Aug. 31 to Sept. 8, the caller had got a total of Rs. 5,86,780 transferred from Pratibha in phases. But when the caller asked Pratibha to transfer more money, she felt something fishy and lodged a complaint at the CEN Police Station in Mysuru.

Foreign gift

In the second case, a 54-year-old woman, who fell for gifts from abroad, lost Rs. 6.83 lakh to the fraudster. The woman who lost her money is C.H. Susheela, a resident of Venkatappa Layout in Gonikoppa of Kodagu district.

One John Williams had befriended Susheela through WhatsApp and the two began to chat continuously. John, who took Susheela's address, told her that he would be sending her gifts and on Oct. 9, he had sent photos of the gifts on her WhatsApp.

The next day, Susheela received a call and the caller, who identified himself from the Customs Office, told her that she had received a parcel and that she had to pay money to get the parcel released. Susheela readily obliged and paid up Later, as various charges, the miscreant got a total of Rs. 6.83 lakh transferred from her in phases till Oct. 15. A case has been registered at Kodagu CEN Police Station.

Towards self-reliance after pandemic: A success story

Overcoming many odds, these women become financially independent through paratha making

By Nandini Srinivasan

Give a man fish, you feed him for a day. Teach him how to fish, you feed him for a lifetime." This is the success story of a group of women determined to lead a self-reliant life after overcoming many odds. The initiative has given them the hope of becoming financially independent.

While the COVID pandemic changed life forever for many, for some, it opened up new avenues. Even as hundreds of hands stretched out seeking help, scores of hands reached out too, pitching in whatever they could to help them lead a decent and independent life.

While many such families in rural areas around Mysuru silently lamented their fate, Koog-U, a voluntary organisation, held their hands and has been helping them slowly get back on their feet.

Thanks to the efforts of Koog-U, today these rural areas have decent schools with clean toilets, thatched roofs replacing tiled ones, young girls saved from child marriage completing their schooling and most importantly, setting up of ParathaKart, an initiative that is helping many women ravaged by the effects of the pandemic to reconstruct their lives.

Dr. Nandini Keshava, a neuro-physiologist and a Bharatnatyam dancer is the force behind this initiative. She and her husband were witnesses to the havoc caused by the pandemic around Hadinaru village near Nanjangud where they have their farm.

Many families lost their breadwinners, several affected did not have access to proper medical care, and no ambulances to ferry the critical to hospitals. Dr. Nandini, along with the help of well-wishers on social media and extended family and a few doctors, swiftly swung into action and pitched in to distribute food and medical kits, ambulance service, oxygen cylinders and other related facilities.

Children rescued from child marriages

A young girl, who was being forced into child marriage, was rescued at the right time and today with the guidance of the organisation has completed her schooling. Counselling to parents has helped several other girls continue their education.

For women who lost their husbands and were utterly clueless about how to move forward, Dr. Nandini was a godsend. She strongly believed that merely donating money or food kits will not help them in the long run and that they needed an initiative that would help them sustain and grow. She came up with the idea of ParathaKart, where the women could prepare and sell parathas.

There are already several hotels and shops selling parathas. So how would this move catch up and how would it be different? "Yes, there are paratha sellers in every area. But I was looking at helping these women prepare them in an organic way with all raw materials sourced from their own labour and make it taste just like home-made ones," Dr. Nandini told Star of Mysore.

Women grow vegetables

Dr. Nandini and her husband spared half an acre of their farmland near Hadinaru village where the women grow vegetables needed to make the stuffing for the parathas, they even grow wheat (or procure them from other farms), make the wheat flour in traditional 'chakkis' or mills.

Radish, carrot, potato and fenugreek leaves are all grown and used. Since cauliflower cannot be grown during rain, they buy it from outside. The parathas are small in size (almost half the size that you get in hotels) but filling and tasty. Moreover, they are hygienic.

They are sold in packs of five and delivered neatly wrapped in banana leaves and tied with a string of banana fibre. The 'ParathaKart Warriors' as Dr. Nandini calls them, ensure that they are 100 percent eco-friendly and it's a simple offering minus frill.

A tractor on the farm has also helped youths earn their livelihood. A group of youths were trained to drive it and till fields. Today, they are being hired by other farms to till the land.

Enabling them to earn

Mahadevi, who was one of the first beneficiaries of this initiative, beams with pride at her new-found vocation. "We are a group of 11 now and make around 300 to 350 parathas daily on average. Each one of us takes back around Rs. 700 every day and that has really put our lives back on track," she said. "I was devastated when my husband died and with two small kids, I thought it was the end. Thanks to Koog-U, we are leading respectable lives now. As we move forward, each one of us plans to take a few more women under our wings and branch out," she added.

Poornima, another beneficiary said she earns enough to provide for her family. "Each one of us is planning to take another 11 women under our wings and expand the business," she added.

Dr. Nandini said she is indebted to Dr. Pratap Reddy of Rotary Central Mysore and his team for all the help they have extended in the school redevelopment and for providing a well-equipped cart for the paratha-makers. Inner Wheel Club of Mysore Central has also extended their help in replacing thatched roofs in tribal areas.

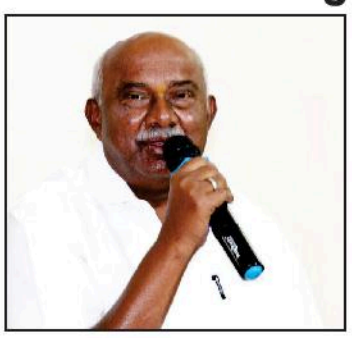
MLC Vishwanath demands probe into cash gift to scribes



Mysuru, Oct.31(PM&DM)- Referring to reports that the Chief Minister's Office had sent cash ranging from Rs.2.5 lakh to 5 lakh to selected scribes in the name of Deepavali gift, MLC A.H. Vishwanath has sought a probe into the entire episode.

Addressing a press meet at Patrakartara Bhavan here yesterday, Vishwanath said that he has been associated with the press for over 40 years, during which he had seen distribution of sweet box and exchange of greeting for Deepavali. But now this gift giving has taken a new turn with the CM's Office accused of sending huge amount of cash to journalists.

Maintaining that the cash gift is an insult to the media, the MLC said that the alleged move by the CM's Office cannot be accepted for any reason. Pointing out that the media is an important part of our democratic system, he decried the efforts to corrupt the media by presenting cash as gifts under the guise of festival. Noting that Karnataka media has got a good nationwide reputation for its impartial reporting and publishing, the MLC reiterated that the Government should order a probe and the guilty be punished for their disgraceful act.

Urging Chief Minister Bommai to react regarding the allegation, Vishwanath demanded a thorough probe into cash gift allegations and also to throw out Media Co-ordinators in the CM's Office, who were out to discredit the CM through their unlawful actions.

WORD OF THE DAY

Interlocutor

Pronunciation: in-ter-LAH-kyuh-ter.
Meaning: Interlocutor is a formal word that means "one who takes part in dialogue or conversation."
Origin: It may not necessarily be grandiloquence to use the word interlocutor in casual speech, but if your interlocutors — that is, the people with whom you are speaking — are using it, your conversation is likely a formal one. Interlocutor is one of many English words that comes from the Latin verb loqui, "to speak," including loquacious ("talkative"), eloquent ("capable of fluent or vivid speech"), and grandiloquence ("extravagant or pompous speech"). In interlocutor, loqui was joined to inter- forming a Latin word meaning "to speak between" or "to issue an interlocutory decree." An interlocutory decree is a judicial decision that isn't final, or that deals with a point other than the principal subject matter of the dispute.
Example: "The Turing Test is a test of intelligence, sentience, consciousness and self-awareness. A machine passes the Turing Test if it can convince a human interlocutor that it is sentient." —Leon Gordon

THE ODD WORD

Ianthine

Violet-coloured.

PHRASE OF THE DAY

I see no ships

Meaning: The expression 'I see no ships' is to knowingly ignore something which you know to be real and significant.
Origin: 'I see no ships' is a description of the response made when Admiral Horatio Nelson wilfully disobeying a signal to withdraw during a naval engagement. The same incident is also the origin of the expression 'turn a blind eye'. Who coined the term 'turn a blind' and whether Nelson actually said "I see no ships" we can't now be sure. What we can be sure about is that both expressions refer to an actual, well-documented, naval engagement and Nelson's part in it. In the naval battle of Copenhagen in 1801, Nelson led the attack of the British fleet against a joint Danish/Norwegian enemy. The British fleet of the day was commanded by Admiral Sir Hyde Parker. The two men disagreed over tactics and at one point Hyde Parker sent a signal (by the use of flags) for Nelson to disengage. Nelson was convinced he could win if he persisted and that's when he 'turned a blind eye'. In their biography Life of Nelson, published just eight years later, Clarke and M'Arthur printed what they claimed to be a Nelson's actual words at the time: [Putting the glass to his blind eye] "You know, Foley, I have only one eye - and I have a right to be blind sometimes... I really do not see the signal."
Nelson may or may not have coined 'I see no ships' but it was his actions in battle that have made it into an everyday expression.

Sudoku is a number-placing puzzle based on a 9x9 grid with several given numbers. The object is to place the numbers 1 to 9 in the empty squares so that each row, each column and each 3x3 box contains the same number only once. The difficulty level of the Concept is Sudoku increases from Monday to Sunday.

CRYPTOQUIP

The Cryptoquip is a substitution cipher in which one letter stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words and words using an apostrophe give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is by trial and error.

India's No.1 Singles Women Tennis Player

Karman Kaur Thandi

New Delhi, Oct. 31- Karman Kaur Thandi is now India's No. 1 Women's Singles Tennis Player, following her recent triumph at the W60 ITF event in Saguenay, Canada on Sunday. She has replaced Ankita Raina.

This victory is the biggest Singles title win of Karman's career so far and it has pushed her 91 positions up in the latest Women's Tennis Association (WTA) rankings to the 217th position. Olympian Ankita is now placed at 297th position after slipping down 13 places.

Rutuja Bhosale, who is down 9 spots to 411, Riya Bhatia, at World No. 490 after slipping down 5 places and Sahaja Yamalapalli, up by 20 spots to World No. 508, are the top five Women's Singles Players in India.

Karman accomplished her career-best 196 ranking in 2018. The win at Saguenay is Karman's third Singles title and second this year. She had won a W25 Tournament back in June at Gurugram. Karman won her maiden Singles title in Hong Kong in 2018.

In the final match against Canada's Katherine Sebov, Karman Kaur bounced back from being a set down to winning the title by 3-6, 6-4, 6-3. Earlier in the tournament, Karman had caused an upset by defeating second seed Robin Anderson (USA) in the first round and Japanese Ena Shibahara, one-half of French Open 2022 mixed double champions in the second round.
